Assembly Of Nations

‘2026

6th Edition

29th and 30th June, 2026

About Calcutta Boys' School

"Dei Mundus Deo - The World of God, for God."

Calcutta Boys' School is a proud Christian Minority institution, founded in 1877 by Bishop James M. Thoburn under the vision of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Operated under the authority of the Calcutta Boys' School Educational Society, it functions as a registered, non-profit charitable organization affiliated with the Bengal Regional Conference of the Methodist Church in India.

Thanks to the generous patronage of Sir Robert Laidlaw, whose contributions laid the foundation of our iconic campus at 72 S.N. Banerjee Road, CBS has grown into a beacon of learning where tradition meets innovation.

For 149 years, Calcutta Boys' School has upheld the timeless values of love, sincerity, justice, equality, and liberty. Committed to providing holistic, high-quality education, the school strives to nurture intellectually curious, morally grounded, and socially responsible global citizens.

From its humble beginnings to a legacy of leadership, CBS continues to inspire, uplift, and empower generations.

About CBS AON

Since its inception in 2011, the Assembly of Nations (AON) by Calcutta Boys' School has been one of Kolkata's pioneering and most respected Model United Nations conferences. What began as a bold initiative has grown into a cornerstone of the city's MUN circuit, with highly successful editions held in 2011, 2013, 2015, 2019, and most recently in 2025.

Guided by the inspiring motto "Renascentia de Legatum" — The Rebirth of Legacy, CBS AON continues to uphold its tradition of excellence. The conference provides a dynamic platform for young minds to engage in spirited debate, strategic negotiation, and meaningful diplomacy. More than just an MUN, AON is a transformative experience that challenges delegates to think critically, communicate effectively, and build consensus on pressing global issues.

With carefully curated committees, relevant agendas, and an experienced Executive Board, the 2026 edition of Assembly of Nations reaffirms CBS's commitment to nurturing the next generation of leaders through intellectually stimulating and professionally organised diplomatic simulations.

1. Code of Conduct:

1.1 Dress Code and Personal Appearance

Delegates are expected to present themselves in a manner that reflects the dignity of the United Nations. Adherence to the following dress code is mandatory for entry into committee sessions.

Western Formals (Strictly Regulated)

For Boys

Shirts: Full-sleeved formal shirts in light, solid colors (e.g., white, light blue, cream). Shirts must be tucked in at all times.

Trousers: Formal black trousers only. Corduroys, chinos, joggers, or denim are not permitted.

Neckwear: A formal necktie is compulsory and must be worn properly knotted at the collar.

Outerwear: A formal blazer or suit coat is highly recommended and mandatory for all Executive Board members.

Footwear: Formal leather shoes (Oxford, Derby, or Brogues). Loafers, sneakers, and suede casuals are prohibited.

Socks: Dark-colored formal socks must be worn.

For Girls

Tops: Formal button-down shirts or blouses with a minimum of 3/4 sleeves. Fabric must be opaque (non-transparent) with a conservative neckline.

Bottom Wear:

- Trousers: Formal straight-cut trousers.
- Skirts: Knee-length or ankle-length formal skirts.

Strict Restriction: Skirts must not have slits or vents that extend above the knee.

Outerwear: A formal blazer is recommended to complete the professional look.

Footwear: Closed-toe formal shoes or pumps. For safety and decorum, heels must not exceed 2 inches. Sandals, flip-flops, and open-toe footwear are not permitted.

General Grooming & Restrictions

To maintain the decorum of the international forum, the following restrictions apply to all delegates:

Prohibited Attire: No casual wear, including hoodies, sweatshirts, ripped jeans, graphic T-shirts, or leggings.

Accessories: Minimal and professional jewelry only. Flashy, oversized accessories are not allowed.

Grooming: Hair must be neat, clean, and styled in a non-distracting manner. For boys - facial hair, if present, should be well-trimmed.

Makeup: Subtle, natural makeup only. Excessive or theatrical makeup is discouraged.

Headwear: No caps, beanies, or hats are permitted inside the committee rooms (except for documented religious observances).

 Enforcement Note: The Secretariat reserves the right to bar any delegate from proceedings if their attire is deemed inappropriate or non-compliant with the standards above. Proper dress is considered the first step in effective diplomacy.

1.2 Identity Card Policy

Each delegate will be issued an official Conference Identity Card, which must be worn visibly at all times during the conference. This identity card is considered an essential part of the delegate's uniform. In the event of loss, a replacement fee of ₹200 will be charged, and a new ID will be issued only upon payment.

Delegates without a valid ID card will not be permitted to enter committee rooms, delegate lounges, or common areas.

1.3 Eligibility for Participation:

Participation is open to students currently enrolled in Grades VIII to XII (Academic Year 2026–2027) for the academic year 2025–2026. Faculty Advisors are responsible for ensuring that all delegate registrations fall within this eligibility range. The Secretariat reserves the right to verify the age and academic credentials of delegates if necessary.

1.4 Delegation Requirements :

Delegation Size:Minimum 8 / Maximum 12 delegates. Schools may register multiple delegations.

Minimum Requirement Compliance: Failure to meet the minimum size may result in restricted committee allocation or disqualification at the Secretariat's discretion.

Distribution Rule: It is compulsory to first ensure that all five committees are represented. Once this baseline is met, the school has the discretion to assign their remaining delegates to any committee, provided the committee's maximum capacity has not been reached.

1.5 Language:

The official and working language of the conference shall be English. Delegates are expected to use formal diplomatic language at all times during debate. Profanity, personal attacks, disrespectful comments, or derogatory language directed at any delegate, member of the Executive Board, or the Secretariat shall not be tolerated and will result in disciplinary action, including possible disqualification.

1.6 Courtesy and Conduct:

Delegates are expected to maintain the highest standards of conduct and decorum throughout the conference. Every participant, including the chairpersons, delegates, and volunteers, must be treated with respect, dignity, and professionalism.

- Any form of bullying, harassment, or discrimination will be addressed with zero tolerance.
- Delegates are expected to follow committee procedure, and any concerns must be respectfully raised via proper channels.
- Disruptive behaviour, use of any unparliamentary language, excessive noise, or disregard for protocol will not be tolerated.

In the event of any disputes or grievances, delegates must report the issue to their Chairpersons or a member of the Secretariat. The Secretariat will take appropriate steps to address and resolve the matter. In all cases, the decision of the Secretariat and the School Organising Committee shall be final and binding.

1.7 Digital Devices Policy

Delegates are permitted to use laptops and tablets during committee sessions strictly for note-taking, research, and committee-related documentation. The following rules apply:

1. Internet Access: Access to the Internet or Wi-Fi is at the discretion of the Committee Executive Board. Delegates may be allowed or denied connectivity based on the nature of the discussion and the committee's progress.
2. Device Charging: All devices must be fully charged prior to the session. The Secretariat does not guarantee the availability of power outlets for charging during committee hours.
3. Mobile Phones: Mobile phones must remain on silent mode or turned off during sessions. Use of phones is only permitted in emergencies and with prior approval from the Chair.
4. Improper Use: Any misuse of devices—including but not limited to entertainment, social media, or messaging unrelated to committee proceedings—will result in confiscation of the device for the remainder of the day.
5. Audio Accessories: The use of earphones, headphones, or similar audio devices is strictly prohibited during committee hours.
6. Misconduct: Any misuse of digital communication tools to offend, isolate, or harass fellow delegates will be treated as seriously as verbal misconduct and dealt with accordingly.

1.8. Communication Policy:

- All official communication between delegates and the Secretariat must take place via email or through formally designated platforms.
- WhatsApp groups are to be created by the Secretariat ONLY to explain committee proceedings. Any informal groups created by the delegates are not liable to the Secretariat or the Conference.
- In cases of any grievances faced by the delegates in these informal groups, the Secretariat shall not be held liable.

- The Secretariat shall communicate all necessary information to Head Delegates and Faculty Advisors. Delegates should avoid contacting the Executive Board directly unless instructed to do so.
- The Secretariat bears no responsibility for information exchanged through any unofficial or informal channels.

1.9 Discipline and Campus Etiquette:

CBS AON 2025 will be conducted within the premises of Calcutta Boys' School, and all delegates are expected to:

- Treat school property with utmost care.
- Refrain from loitering in corridors, staircases, or any area not assigned for delegate movement.
- Avoid eating or littering in committee rooms and follow assigned disposal zones.
- No delegate is permitted to leave the campus during conference hours unless authorized by the Secretariat and accompanied by a faculty advisor or parent.

Any damage to school property or violation of school norms will lead to strict disciplinary measures and possible removal from the conference.

1.10 Prohibited Substances Policy:

- The possession or consumption of tobacco, alcohol, vapes, or any illicit substances is strictly prohibited on campus.
- Any delegate found in violation of this policy will be immediately expelled from the conference, and their school will be formally notified.

This rule applies not only within the conference venue but also to its immediate surroundings.

1.11 Appeals and Requests

All appeals, special requests, or complaints must be made in writing to the Secretariat or via email at cbson2026@gmail.com

Requests must be made by Head Delegates or Faculty Advisors on behalf of the delegation. Anonymous or informal appeals will not be entertained.

1.12. Powers of the Secretariat and Executive Board:

- All decisions made by the Secretariat are final, non-negotiable, and binding on all participants.
- Any situation not explicitly covered in this Handbook will be resolved at the sole discretion of the Secretariat.
- Chairpersons and the Executive Board are responsible for regulating debate, enforcing rules, and guiding the committee. Any challenges to their authority must be raised respectfully through Points of Order or Appeals.
- The Executive Board reports directly to the Secretary-General and Deputy Secretary-General. Their directives must be adhered to without exception."

2. Rules of procedure

2.1 Formal Language and Respect for Procedure:

All delegates are expected to use formal diplomatic language and strictly adhere to procedural norms. The Chairpersons and Executive Board will guide the flow of committee and reserve the right to interpret, apply, and enforce all procedural rules. Any challenge to procedure must be made respectfully through Points of Order.

2.2 Roll Call:

Each committee session shall begin with a Roll Call. Delegates must respond with either:

- "Present and Voting": The delegate will be required to vote either in favor or against during substantive voting procedures and may not abstain.
- "Present": The delegate retains the right to abstain from substantive voting.

If a delegate fails to respond during Roll Call, they shall be marked absent for that session.

2.3 Setting the Agenda :

In the committees, the first procedural action is the setting of the agenda, if multiple topics are presented. A motion to set one of the proposed agenda items must be raised after Roll Call. The committee will then enter a formal debate to determine the agenda. The topic receiving a simple majority vote will be set for discussion.

However, this rule will not apply in all the committees.

2.4 General Speakers' List (GSL):

The General Speakers' List is the default form of debate, and is used to structure discussion on the agenda. Delegates may raise their placards to be added to the list at any point when the floor is open.

Each speaker will be given a fixed time (determined by the Executive Board) to express their views. A delegate on the list may:

- Speak for the allotted time
- Yield their time (to the Chair, another delegate, or for questions, subject to Chair's discretion)
- Use the time for constructive contributions related to the agenda

When the list is exhausted or a motion is passed to close it, the committee moves to voting procedure.

2.5 Motions:

Delegates may propose motions to change the format of debate. All motions are subject to approval by the Executive Board. Common motions include:

- Motion for a Moderated Caucus: A structured debate with a specific topic, speaking time, and overall duration.
- Motion for an Unmoderated Caucus: An informal debate session allowing delegates to move freely and negotiate.
- Motion to Change Speaking Time: To adjust the time allotted per speaker in the GSL or moderated caucuses.
- Motion to Table/Resume Debate: To temporarily suspend/resume debate on the current agenda (not applicable in all committees).
- Motion to Close Debate: Ends discussion and moves the committee into voting procedure. Requires two-thirds majority.

If multiple motions are raised simultaneously, the Chair will prioritize them based on disruptiveness and put them to vote accordingly.

2.6 Points:

Delegates may raise Points when the floor is open or at specific times with the Chair's permission.

- Point of Personal Privilege: Used when a delegate's ability to participate is hindered (e.g., inaudibility, discomfort). May be raised at any time.
- Point of Order: Raised when a procedural error is believed to have occurred. Must be based on RoP and addressed respectfully.
- Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: Used to seek clarification on rules or procedures. Directed at the Chair.
- Point of Information (to the Speaker): Only if the Chair permits it — used to ask a question to the delegate who just spoke, if they have yielded time.
- Point of Information (to the Chair): A factual question not related to rules or parliamentary issues.

All points must be concise and non-disruptive. The Chair reserves the right to rule any point as out of order.

2.7 Right of Reply:

A Right of Reply may be granted by the Chair if a delegate feels personally or nationally insulted during another delegate's speech. It must be requested in writing and may be approved at the Chair's discretion. Abusive or repeated misuse of this right may result in a warning.

2.8 Quorum and Voting:

A simple majority of registered delegates present in committee constitutes quorum. All procedural matters require a simple majority vote. Substantive matters (e.g., draft resolutions, amendments) require a qualified majority, as specified by the committee type:

- In General Assembly committees, a simple majority of those present and voting
- In the Security Council, nine votes in favor and no veto by a Permanent Member (P5)
- In UNHRC, C-34 and G20 - majority rules apply unless otherwise stated by the Board

Delegates marked "Present" may abstain from substantive voting. Those marked "Present and Voting" must vote either in favor or against.

The total number of allocations per committee is as follows:

- UNGA – SPECPOL: 25 delegations (double)
- UNHRC : 25 delegations (double)

- UNSC: 25 delegations (single)
- C-34 : 20 delegations (single)
- G20 : 36 delegations (single)

3. Paperwork submission and formatting:

3.1 Policy Paper

Definition: A policy paper is a short document submitted before the start of the conference that provides an overview of a country's or entity's stance on the agenda. It is mandatory in every committee of CBS AON and is used by the Executive Board to assess preparation and policy direction. The document helps the Executive Board understand national or bloc-level interests and approach.

Type: Public only.

Usage: A well-written policy paper generally includes the following:

- a. An overview of the delegation or country's position, including a Statement of the Problem and the overall policy approach.
- b. Relevant past actions, alliances, treaties, or contributions made by the delegation to the issue.
- c. A list of proposed solutions that reflect both national interest and diplomatic feasibility.

Format: Ideally, no policy paper should exceed two pages (excluding bibliography, if any). Each paper should be clearly titled, structured in paragraphs, and written in formal language. Submission is compulsory and must be done before the conference as directed by the Secretariat.

3.2 Press Release

Definition: A press release is a short formal update created to inform the media, press team, or other stakeholders about key developments in committee. It is written in a neutral and objective tone and represents the committee's collective status at a particular point during debate.

Type: Public only.

Usage:

- a. To summarize important events such as a consensus, crisis escalation, or draft resolution submission.
- b. To simulate UN press communications and diplomatic reporting.
- c. To ensure non-delegate stakeholders are informed about committee progress.

Format: A press release should begin with a concise headline and include one or two short paragraphs written in third person and past tense. It must be neutral and fact-based. All press releases are subject to approval by the Executive Board before being published or circulated.

3.3 Directive

Definition: A directive is a short and immediate instruction issued by the committee to a government, international organization, or UN agency with due mandate restrictions taken into account. It is usually drafted during real-time scenarios or high-tension debates requiring urgent decisions.

Type: Public or Private (as per Executive Board discretion).

Usage:

- a. To command or request an actor to take immediate, specific action (e.g., deploy troops, conduct inspections, freeze assets).
- b. To simulate operational capacity and crisis management by the committee.
- c. To ensure a direct and rapid response to a simulated development.

Format: A directive is typically one to three concise paragraphs. It should clearly state:

- The issuing committee (implicitly or explicitly)
- The recipient or targeted actor
- The action to be taken, including any timeframe or region involved

Bullet points and clause structures are not used in directives. Plain narrative style is followed.

3.4 Working Paper Definition

Definition : A working paper is an informal, negotiable document submitted during the conference by one or more delegations to present ideas, draft text, or proposed clauses intended to build consensus and serve as a basis for formal outputs such as draft resolutions. It records proposals for discussion, coalition-building, and iterative drafting. Working papers are tools for brainstorming and are not final decisions of the committee.

Type: Internal (may be public if committee rules allow).

Usage: A well-written working paper generally includes the following:

- a. A clear title and a working paper number (assigned by the Chair/Secretariat upon submission).
- b. Sponsoring delegations (authors or drafting group) listed at the top.
- c. A short background or problem-statement paragraph summarizing context and the issue.
- d. Proposed operative text or individual clauses, numbered for easy reference and amendment.
- e. Optional annotations indicating clause intent, suggested alternatives, or source references.

Format: Ideally, a working paper should be concise—preferably 1–3 pages. Use numbered clauses for operative text and short paragraphs for background material. Use formal language; avoid rhetorical flourishes. When multiple versions exist, identify them with version numbers or dates. Submission is to the Chair/Secretariat as directed by committee rules; the Chair may assign a number and circulate it to delegates. Working papers do not carry automatic status as formal committee decisions and must be merged or converted into a draft resolution or committee outcome following the committee’s rules for formal adoption.

3.5 Draft Resolution Definition

Definition: A draft resolution is the formal instrument containing the committee’s proposed actions and recommendations. It is submitted for debate, amendment, and voting and serves as the primary means by which committees reach decisions (binding or non-binding, depending on the committee’s mandate).

Type: Public (formal document of the committee).

Usage: A well-written draft resolution generally includes the following:

- a. Title: a concise, descriptive title.

b. Sponsors: list of primary sponsors (minimum number required by committee rules); co-sponsors listed separately if applicable.

c. Preambulatory clauses: begin with participles or standard phrases setting context and justification. Each preambular clause ends with a comma. Common opening words include: “Acknowledging,” “Alarmed by,” “Aware of,” “Bearing in mind,” “Concerned by,” “Recognizing,” “Reaffirming,” etc.

d. Operative clauses: numbered sequentially; each operative clause begins with an action verb and ends with a semicolon, except the final operative clause which ends with a full stop. Common action verbs include: “Calls upon,” “Urges,” “Requests,” “Encourages,” “Recommends,” “Decides,” “Authorizes,” “Invites,” “Condemns,” “Demands,” “Calls for immediate measures,” etc.

e. Mandatory phrasing conventions:

- Preambulary clauses must be descriptive and not actionable.
- Operative clauses must be specific, actionable, and practicable; avoid vague or purely rhetorical operatives.
- Each operative clause should be numbered (1., 2., 3., ...) and sub-clauses labeled (a), (b), (c) where needed.
- Include implementation mechanisms, timelines, responsible actors, and funding sources where relevant.

f. Implementation and voting: specify responsible bodies, timelines, and the voting threshold required for adoption (simple majority, two-thirds, etc.), and whether roll call or show of hands will be used.

Format: Typically 1–4 pages depending on complexity. Use numbered preambulatory and operative clauses for ease of amendment. Follow any template provided by the Secretariat for fonts, margins, and heading. Submission is compulsory upon meeting the minimum sponsor threshold; the Secretariat registers draft resolutions, assigns a document number, and circulates them to the committee prior to formal debate. Draft resolutions may be amended on the floor following the committee’s amendment rules (friendly/unfriendly amendments or formal amendment motions).

3.6. Committee-Specific Outcome Document (for non-UN committees) Definition

A committee-specific outcome document is the final, official record of the committee’s deliberations and agreed conclusions. Depending on the committee, it may take forms such as a committee report, communiqué, joint statement, declaration, final communique, or negotiated schedule of actions. It summarizes conclusions, recommendations, and agreed next steps rather than acting as a single draft resolution.

Type: Public (official committee output).

Usage: A well-written outcome document generally includes the following:

- a. Title and a clear statement of the document's nature (e.g., Final Communiqué, Committee Report, Joint Declaration).
- b. A brief executive summary of key findings/consensus (1–3 paragraphs).
- c. Body sections that may include: agreed findings; recommended policies; timelines; responsibilities (which delegations, organizations, or bodies will take particular actions); consultation/follow-up mechanisms; funding/implementation notes; and annexes (technical details, matrices, contact points).
- d. If the committee agreed on decisions that are legally or operationally binding within the simulation's rules, include the formal decision text and citation of mandate or authority.

Format: Flexible length—1–6 pages recommended for clarity. Complex outcomes may include annexes that expand content without inflating the main document. Use headers to separate sections (Executive summary, Agreed Actions, Implementation, Annexes) and use numbered recommendations or bulleted lists for readability. Submission is by the drafting committee, Chair, or rapporteur in consultation with sponsors and the Executive Board. The committee must approve the outcome document according to its rules (by consensus or vote); record the method of adoption (consensus or vote and results). Circulate the approved final document to all delegates and the Secretariat; post publicly if committee rules require. Include a bibliography or references if the document cites policies, treaties, or external materials.

Note: Further instructions and clarifications about all committee specific paperwork requirements and formats and application for submission will be given by the executive board members of respective committees either prior to the conference, or during/post committee sessions as and when required.
